Safety Awards Program

The N.C. Department of Labor Safety Awards Program recognizes private firms and public agencies throughout the state that achieve and maintain outstanding safety records. The program is designed to stimulate interest in accident prevention and to promote safety in the workplace by providing an incentive to employers and employees to maintain a safe and healthful workplace.

In continuous operation since 1946, the program extends to all North Carolina employers, and more than 3,000 awards are presented annually. The Safety Awards Program is operated within the Education, Training and Technical Assistance Bureau of the Occupational Safety and Health Division. There are two levels under the annual safety awards program, gold and silver. The award level is determined by the qualifying criteria.

The annual safety awards are presented during ceremonies that take place each spring at 30 locations across North Carolina. Local groups, such as the chamber of commerce or various associations, co-sponsor these events.

To qualify for an annual safety award a firm must meet the following requirements:

- (a) It must have had no fatalities at the site during the calendar year for which the award is given.
- (b) It must have maintained either a perfect safety record for that year, or an incidence rate at least 50 percent below the average for its particular industry group.

Gold Award Criteria

This award level is based on the DART case rate or cases with days away, restriction or job transfer.

Silver Award Criteria

This award level is based on the cases with days away from work rate. These are recorded when a worker missed at least one full day of work, not including the day of injury.

Million-Hour Safety Awards

Million-hour safety awards are given to firms that accumulate 1 million employee hours with no case of injury or illness involving days away from work. Subsequent awards are given for each additional 1 million safe employee hours. Million-hour awards are presented during the local annual safety awards ceremony. Special arrangements can be made to present million-hour awards to the firm at its place of business at any time during the year.

How to Apply

Applications for annual awards are mailed to participating firms in January of each year. These are filled out by the applicants and returned to the safety awards office by mid-February.

Million-hour award applications are mailed at the firm's request and can be processed at any time the firm reaches 1 million employee hours.

Applications for annual awards and million-hour awards can be accessed, completed and submitted via the Internet at the Department of Labor's website: www.labor.nc.gov or by contacting:
